Price Gouging Experience:

I took my wife to [REDACTED] in [REDACTED] Florida [REDACTED] 2014 for a tooth ache. She spent a total of 15 minutes in the ER. They lifted up her lip looked at her tooth gave her a pain medication and said okay. Total bill $498.00 for literately 15 minutes. Her name is [REDACTED] [REDACTED] I also recently sent you [REDACTED] an email regarding my [REDACTED] They as well are price gouging. They have raised my insurance from last year at $127.00 per month now $450. Per month. I have had a clear driving record for over 10 years. They are using the excuse they do not have proof of multiple things only to raise insurance. From what I hear I am not the only one that this is happening to. I am out raged, I have called the insurance commissioner and everyone I can think of. We are tired to fight to stay on top. We work 6 days a week and things like this can impact people hard. We do not ask for assistance as we are fighters and one way or the other will survive. Last but not least the Dentists, just to day I went to have my mouth checked out. They want $5,500 to fix 2 teeth and make a bridge. Now we have a family paying health insurance, outrageous auto insurance, and normal bills. My wife and I both make $9.00 per hour. When you have big companies like the hospital, insurance companies and [REDACTED]. How does any family survive? If you do anything for me, I ask you look into how these insurance companies are stealing from the people. It really strikes me funny as how right after making a claim on my truck to have my windshield replaced with my full coverage is right when they raised my insurance from $199.00 to $450.00 only by telling me they need proof of prior Insurance. Telling me that I am not married. All kinds of things.
